2. Impact of MidCoast Council functions on the public

As a service organisation, most of Council's activities have an impact on the public. The following is an outline of how the broad functions may impact members of the public.

FUNCTION	DESCRIPTION
Service	Service functions affect members of the public as Council provides services and facilities to the public. These include provision of human services such as libraries, halls, community centres, recreation facilities and infrastructure and the removal of garbage.
Regulatory	Regulatory functions place restrictions on developments and buildings to ensure that they meet certain requirements affecting the amenity of the community and not endanger the lives and safety of any person. Members of the public must be aware of, and comply with, such regulations.
Ancillary	Ancillary functions affect only some members of the public. These functions include, for example, land acquisition, entry onto private land. In these circumstances, only the owner of the property would be affected.
Revenue	Revenue functions affect the public directly in that revenue from rates and other charges paid by the public is used to fund services and facilities provided to the community.
Administrative	Administrative functions do not necessarily affect the public directly but have an indirect impact on the community through the efficiency and effectiveness of the service provided.
Enforcement	Enforcement functions only affect those members of the public who are in breach of certain legislation. This includes matters such as the non-payment of rates and charges, unregistered dogs and parking offences.
Community planning and development	 Community planning and development functions affect areas such as cultural development, social planning and community profiling and involves: advocating and planning for the needs of the community providing support to community and sporting organisations through the provision of grants, training and information facilitating opportunities for people to participate in the life of the community through the conduct of a range of community events such as Seniors Week and NAIDOC Week as well as promoting other events.

3. Public participation in Local Government

MidCoast Council supports the principles of open government and encourages community involvement in policy development and general activities of Council. There are two broad ways in which members of the public may participate in the policy development and the general activities of Council. These are through representation and personal participation.

Representation

Local Government in Australia is based on the principle of representative democracy. This means that the people elect representatives to their local council to make decisions on their behalf. In New South Wales, local government elections are generally held every four years.

The election for MidCoast was scheduled to take place in September 2020. However, legislation to postpone all NSW local government elections was passed in the NSW Parliament because of the COVID pandemic. The elections were postponed to 4 December 2021 which meant that Councillors elected at the December 2021 local government elections were elected for a shorter term. The postponement of these elections does not affect the timing of future elections, and the subsequent ordinary local government elections will still proceed in September 2024.

At each election, voters elect 11 councillors for a four-year term. All residents of the area, who are on the electoral roll, are eligible to vote. Property owners who live outside of the area, and rate paying lessees can also vote, but must register their intention to vote on the non-residential roll. Voting is compulsory.

Residents are able to raise issues with, and make representations to, the elected councillors. The councillors, if they agree with the issue or representation, may pursue the matter on the resident's behalf thus allowing members of the public to influence the development of policy.

4. Personal participation in the exercise of MidCoast Council's functions

Members of the community are encouraged to have a say in what Council does.

Community participation is one of the guiding principles for councils under the Local Government Act 1993. The Act encourages councils to be open and accountable to the community. This is achieved by people having appropriate access to information, voting in polls and referendums, making submissions to Council and by Council meetings being open to the public.

Members of the public can participate in policy development, and general activities of Council, in various ways, some of which include; addressing the Council at Council meetings, making representations to Councillors, providing feedback on draft documents that are on public exhibition (such as plans, budgets, rates, policies and planning decisions) and discussing issues with staff.

We also deliver a number of ongoing programs and activities to inform, consult and engage with our community on an ongoing basis. These key activities include:

- Satisfaction surveys
- Community conversations
- 'Have your Say' online portal
- Newsletters with rates and accounts
 Community and advisory groups
- Media coverage
- Advertising and promotion

- Email newsletters
- Direct mail
- Call centre
- Social media
- Customer service centres
